Inspired by the parable of the rich man and Lazarus in today's Gospel, Benedict XVI once told the people in the courtyard of the Apostolic Palace that "the first lives in luxury and selfishness, and when he dies, ends up in hell. Instead, the poor man, who eats the leftovers from the table of the rich, on his death, is carried by angels to the eternal abode of God and the saints. But the message of the parable goes further: it reminds us that while we are in this world, we must listen to the Lord who speaks through the Scriptures and live by his will, or, after death, it will be too late to repent. So this story tells us two things: the first is that God loves the poor and raises them from humiliation and the second is that our eternal destiny is determined by our behavior, it is up to us to follow the path God has shown us to come to life, and this path is love, understood not as a sentiment, but as service to others in the love of Christ... Only Love with the capital" L "- he concluded - brings true happiness... Let us give praise to God because his love is stronger than evil and death, and thank the Virgin Mary who leads young people through difficulties and suffering, to fall in love with Jesus and discover the beauty of life"
